Conference Theme :

With technology breaking new barriers each day, the boundaries of an individual or nation are expanding across all spheres. What starts as a small spark in a random obscure place is potentiated to trigger an international revolutionary wave in the times we live in. In recent times human civilization has evolved along the paradigms of globalism, scientism and market driven economies. This has an all pervasive effect on global environment including man, nature and culture which manifests in various changes and poses an array of challenge. Global trend in development has been based on scientific-technological rationality which often undermines humanitarian concerns and human values. It is time to engage in constructive critique of modern science and critical re-appreciation of traditional knowledge.

Contemporary political system around the world promotes liberal democracies. But how liberal these democracies are towards the aspirations of the ethnic-cultural minorities, immigrants and the religious-others? Why the efforts of peace-building and conflict resolution prove insufficient to curb the menace of separatism, fundamentalism and radicalism? Society and culture have likewise experienced deep transformative impact, consequential to scientific and economic growth, intensified by the overwhelming influence of information technology and social media. An assessment of positives and negatives of these changes will certainly help in mitigating its challenges. Globalism has turned the world into a network of interconnected communities with blurring cultural boundaries in visual and literary traditions as well as in tangible arts. Contemporary society is faced with a dilemma whether to hail the evolving cultures without boundaries or to criticize the erosion of cultures.

The objective of this international conference is to provide a platform to academicians, scientists, researchers, students and other stake holders to explore, discuss and debate these issues and produce fruitful results.
